Hobey Baker, Great Amateur Hockey Player.

Hobey Baker, captain of the St. Nicholas Hockey Club of New York, is considered by experts to be the greatest amateur hockey player in this country. Baker is capable of playing any position in hockey, but usually plays at center of rover. While a student at Princeton Hobey was the star college hockey player. In the recent games with the Montreal Stars for the Art Ross challenge cup, Hobey was the mainstay of the St. Nick's. Besides being a hockey player of note, Hobey was a great football player at Princeton. He was captain of the Tigers in 1913.

The New Fad

Forgotten the waltz and its languorous steps.
The mazurka and its manifold graces.
And dim in the past are the animal hops.
The fox, bear and bunny ear paces.
The clinkety clank of the clink-clank skates.
Is the rhythm we now find enthralling.
Then ho for the pastime which fashion dictates!
The voice of the skater is calling!

Come where the frozen arena is glowing
To myriad lights;
Follow the rest of the populace going
To power and delight.
The trol, the fandango,
The Argentine tango
Abandon with chorine of glee.
For tempo advances,
And dead are the dances
Away to the rink with me!

The ballroom is dusty; the ghost of the dance
Is limping alone, broken hearted.
He dips and he glides, but his dolorous glance
Is sought to his glory departed.
The clinkety clank of the clink-clank skates.
Like the laugh of an impudent satyr,
He echoes, "He jact a sport of the fates.
The dancer dethroned by the skater!"

AMERICAN DIPLOMATS HAVE TO SPEND MUCH IN TRAVELING

Secretary Lansing Would Increase Appropriation For Expenses.

That American diplomatic and consular officers suffer financially when shifted from post to post by promotion or transfer is disclosed in a memorandum just submitted to congress by Secretary Lansing. He asks for an increase from $50,000 to $125,000 in the appropriation for transportation of these government officers on the ground that the present allowance of 5 cents a mile to reimburse them for expenses of traveling to and from their posts or upon official business is inadequate.

Computations by state department officials show that the 5 cents a mile fails to reimburse an unmarried consular officer by from 2 mills to 10 cents a mile and a married officer by from 4 mills to $1.02 a mile, according to the number of members of the officer's family and the quantity of household effects transferred to the new post, the average loss of each officer being estimated at 18 cents a mile, or $215.47 for each promotion or transfer.

Secretary Lansing cites these instances: Cost of transportation and subsistence of an officer transferred from Washington to Hongkong, for himself and wife, $829.50. The government reimbursed him $57.80; personal loss, $222.70. Officer and wife transferred from London to Naples; transportation and subsistence cost them $290; government reimbursed them $67.65; from Naples to Gothenburg, cost $293; government reimbursed them $65.82. In none of these cases was cost of transporting household effects included.

Secretary Lansing says that these officers compete with similar officers of other governments which pay the entire expenses; that naval officers get 8 cents a mile in the United States and actual expenses abroad, and senators and representatives get 20 cents a mile each way.

The state department recommendation is to accord with the practice of nearly every other first class government so as to allow actual transportation and subsistence expenses for diplomats and consuls and their families, together with their household effects.

"TRUSTIES" GIVEN HOLIDAY.

North Carolina Governor Allowed Convicts to Return Home.

Governor Craig of North Carolina granted three days' leave of absence at Christmas to all "trustee" convicts, and the plan was apparently a success. The governor has already received letters from many of them expressing their gratitude, and, better still, he has had numbers of telegrams from county officials saying that the men have returned promptly. In Buncombe county thirty-five came back and in Wake fifteen.

The governor says all have returned according to their pledge. The total number is estimated at from 450 to 500. He says he is convinced that they return better men, with more respect for themselves and from the public. He believes that the plan will improve prison discipline and result in betterment of prison conditions.

MATRIMONIAL LUCK ALIKE.

Brothers Wed the Same Day and Ask Divorce the Same Day.

The same luck in matrimony was shared by H. A. Miskell and W. E. Miskell, brothers, who were married on the same date and who on the same day filed petitions for divorce in the district court in Denver.

H. A. Miskell was married in Chicago Jan. 9, 1901, and W. E. Miskell at Fairfield, Ia., on the same date. Both brothers charge their wives with desertion and allege desertions occurred the same week of last year. The two petitions for divorce are almost identical in wording and were filed by the same attorney.

Serum For Whooping Cough.

Great interest has been aroused in Berlin medical circles by the notice that Dr. Kraus of Buenos Aires has discovered a serum for the cure of whooping cough. In spite of the fact that little is known of the inventor in bacteriological circles, it is said tests of the serum assure its success.

YOUNG FOLKS' CORNER

The Game of "Second Letters."

At a party you can have a good deal of fun playing the game of "second letters." The players form a circle, and after all have heard the general subject of the game the starter begins by giving a word that suits the chosen subject. The person on the left then repeats the saying and gives a suitable word that begins with the second letter of the word that the first speaker gave.

To illustrate, "first names" is a general favorite as a subject. The starter begins, "My name is Anna, and I live at Annapolis."

N is the second letter of Anna, so the second person joins in with, "My name is Nora, and I live at Newark." The following list will show how names follow each other until they run out: Anna, Nora, Olive, Laura, Agnes, Grace, Rose, Olivia, Lucretia, U—out!

Taking the name of a city with the personal name adds fun and demands much quickness of thought. The following, as overheard by a listener, gives an idea of the game:

"My name is Anna, and I live at Attleboro."
"My name is Nancy, and I live at New Orleans."
"My name is Alice, and I live at Albany."

"My name is Lena, and I live at Los Angeles."
"My name is Elsie, and I live at—"

"She's stuck! Out!" The master of ceremonies has said her say. On goes the game. Intent are eyes, ears, brains, ready to pounce upon the bit of information needed to continue the game.

You will enjoy this game because it is good fun, and when it is over you will realize that you have gained something, too, for it is excellent memory practice. And then there is the pleasant feeling that comes when you do not fall—you have done your part to keep the game going.—Youth's Companion.

Game of "Ghosts."

A game that affords much amusement is called "ghosts." A player says a letter. He has in mind a word beginning with this letter. The second player adds a letter, also having a word in mind. This keeps on until a word is constructed. A player who ends a word becomes a third of a ghost. He can usually tell by the next to the last letter where it will end. Take, for instance, the word "delude." The player whose turn it is after the one who said "d" the second time usually can tell that the word is delude. Instead of becoming a third of a ghost, he will think and say "l," having in mind "deluding."

When he says "l" probably a player will have his doubts as to whether there could be any word having "delude" for part of it. He challenges the player. When the player has a word the challenger becomes a third of a ghost. If he has not he becomes a "third." When a player becomes three-thirds of a ghost (for each time he ends a word or violates a condition he becomes another third) he is "out." When he gets "out" he tries to make the ones in the game laugh or talk to him. If he succeeds they become a third of a ghost.

Very often a player unconsciously finishes a word. The word may start with "h." He will say "e," probably thinking of heroine. He has formed the word "he" and is a third of a ghost.

About Mammals.

Mammals are called so because they are milk giving animals. The teeth are interesting, differing a little in form in each class and each member of a class of animals.

We have grinders or molars for grinding food, pointed at the sides, or canine, and incisors or front teeth. Humans, who are prepared to eat any thing, are omnivorous. A cow is her bitorous, and the cat, dog and lion are carnivorous.
A lion bites, but does not masticate, and the jaws work up and down. A cow masticates or chews, moving the jaws from side to side.
Man masticates his food.

"Russian Scandal."

A very interesting game is "Russian scandal." The players sit in a long line or ring. The first, turning to the second, whispers very rapidly some remark or a brief story. The second, who may hear it distinctly, but probably does not, then whispers it as exactly as he can to the third player, and so on until the line is finished. The last player then whispers it to the first player, and the first player repeats his original remark to the company and follows it with the form in which it has just reached him. The result is always very amusing.

Calf Scours.

Scours in calves is very often the result of feeding too large quantities of cold milk or of feeding the milk in dirty utensils, so avoid both of these conditions. If the animal receives separator milk remove the foam and warm the milk before feeding. Give a dose of castor oil before other treatment. Add time water freely to the milk, or to each pint of milk add one teaspoonful of a mixture of one-half ounce of formaldehyde and fifteen and one-half ounces of freshly boiled water. It would be well to add some calf meal or a teaspoonful of blood meal to the ration.—Hoard's Dairyman.

FLAG DAY.

A Proclamation By the Governor.

The 14th of this month will be the 139th anniversary of the adoption of the Stars and Stripes as the flag of our country, the emblem of freedom. Wherever it floats not only protection of life and property but absolute freedom of thought and action within the law ought to be a reality to all.

The stress of present conditions must attach unusual significance to our flag. The glory of its past should electrify the sentiment of the present and strengthen the high resolve of every real true American citizen.

Now, therefore, I, William C. McDonald, Governor of the State of New Mexico, do hereby proclaim Wednesday, June 14, 1916, as Flag Day in the State of New Mexico.

Let the folds of the beautiful flag float from every public and private building and adorn every home on this day, so that we may fully appreciate our peaceful conditions under it and be prepared for any emergency to protect what it represents for our people and country. The time ought soon to come when there will no longer be room for divided or foreign allegiance and traitorous tongues.

Take off your hats Flag Day and shout for "Old Glory," the flag that set us free and must keep us free.

Done at the executive office this the 2nd day of June, A. D., 1916. Witness my hand and the Great Seal of the State of New Mexico.
